Inspiring Change

What’s next? It’s a question I’ve been asked frequently during my first months as dean of the world’s first school of philanthropy. The answers are exhilarating, in part because the past year has been one of rapid growth, change, and innovation, paving the way for the possibilities that animate us going forward.

A record number of graduates completed our Philanthropic Studies programs. Groundbreaking research projected the future of giving, and international partnerships from Berlin to China expanded understanding of philanthropy globally. New initiatives by Lake Institute on Faith & Giving and the Women’s Philanthropy Institute revealed insights to aid congregations, donors, and nonprofits, and The Fund Raising School equipped them to fulfill their important missions.

Our greatest strength remains our talent. Our faculty, our staff, and especially our students are the way we improve the world. We are inspired by them, just as we hope to inspire them to make meaningful change. Alumni already are achieving great impact, improving the human condition across the country and across borders around the globe.

Anticipating achievements and opportunities to come, we are first and foremost dedicated to our students’ success, redoubling our commitment to them and to all we serve. As we grow, we continue to benefit from the expertise of colleagues who have transitioned into new roles and we thank Dwight Burlingame, Tim Seiler, and Bill Enright for their ongoing service. Special thanks to Founding Dean Gene Tempel, who led the school for the first half of the fiscal year. Most of all, we thank you, our dedicated friends, supporters, and champions who make our work possible and encourage us daily.

On our cover:

Our new, center-of-campus University Hall home provides students with dedicated space to study, to interact and to collaborate with faculty, and facilitates student recruitment and advising.
Educating Passionate Professionals

Outstanding Philanthropic Studies faculty and programs educate emerging and veteran philanthropy professionals and scholars, preparing them to be thoughtful, innovative, visionary leaders.

Moving Philanthropy Forward

- Understanding of philanthropy across borders and within cultures will be advanced by the Stead Family Chair in International Philanthropy, a gift from Jerre and Mary Joy Stead and their family through the Stead Family Foundation.

- Emmett D. Carson, Ph.D., CEO and president of Silicon Valley Community Foundation—the nation’s largest—served as the first Visiting Charles Stewart Mott Foundation Chair on Community Foundations.

- Indiana University President Michael A. McRobbie honored Board of Visitors member Irene Lilly McCutchen with the Lilly Family School of Philanthropy Medal of Distinction in recognition of her contributions and service to the school.

- The William and Edie Enright Fellowship in Philanthropic Studies will aid future students.

Careers Creating Change

Alumni hold key leadership positions, such as:

- Director, White House Office of Social Innovation and Civic Participation
- Chair, National Endowment for the Arts
- General Manager, Koç Foundation, Istanbul
- Treasurer, State of Indiana
- Vice President, Global Philanthropy, JPMorgan Chase

Amir Pasic was appointed dean of the Lilly Family School of Philanthropy. He holds the Eugene R. Tempel Deanship, established by a generous lead gift from Bill and Irene Lilly McCutchen through the Ruth Lilly Philanthropic Fund and generous major gifts from Maureen and Jim Hackett, Bob Hartsook, an anonymous donor, and others.

93% of graduates seeking jobs have been placed, including 100 percent of the bachelor’s degree graduates.
2015 graduates won positions such as:

- Vice president of development, National Urban League
- Director of philanthropy, Sheutifim, which strengthens Israel’s philanthropic sector
- Associate director, CCS fundraising consulting firm
- Program officer, Ball Brothers Foundation
- Executive director, Fay Biccard Glick Crooked Creek Neighborhood Center

I chose this degree because it has so many opportunities and I am going into a field that I am passionate about. I want to influence young adults to become engaged with the community.

– Brittany, B.A. student

10:1 average student-faculty ratio

Preparing for Promising Futures

Students earned special honors, including

- National Bush Foundation Fellowship
- IU Graduate and Professional School’s Elite 50 students list (4 students)
- IUPUI’s Top 100 undergraduates list (2 students)

Academic tuition revenue for the school has more than doubled in the past 5 years.

Faculty members received national recognition:

- Assistant Professor Catherine Herrold’s dissertation won the Association for Research on Nonprofit Organizations and Voluntary Action’s 2014 outstanding dissertation award.
- Assistant Professor Sara Konrath presented at South by Southwest on her research on using text messaging to build empathy in teenagers.

- William M. Plater Civic Engagement Medallion (3 students)
- Undergraduate Chancellor’s Scholar
- Max Kade Fellowship

The largest class of students since the 1987 founding of the Center on Philanthropy was graduated. It included the most bachelor’s degree recipients to date (10).

- Assistant Professor Genevieve Shaker received the 2015 Emerging Scholar Award from the Research Council of the national Association of Fundraising Professionals.
- Dr. Jiangang Zhu, executive dean of the Research School of Philanthropy at Sun Yat-sen University, was a Fulbright Scholar at the Lilly Family School of Philanthropy.
Discovering New Insights

Innovative, cutting-edge research conducted by the school’s faculty and staff advances knowledge that improves the practice of philanthropy for professionals, donors, and volunteers.

- Giving USA 2015, researched and written by the school for Giving USA Foundation, estimated record-high U.S. giving in 2014 for the first time since the Great Recession.

- Insights from the 2014 U.S. Trust Study of High Net Worth Philanthropy help donors, financial advisors, nonprofits, and fundraisers become more strategic and effective.

- The Coutts 2014 Million Dollar Donors Report examined wealthy donors’ giving patterns in seven regions around the world.

- Giving in Chicago, released with The Chicago Community Trust, is the first comprehensive study of individual, corporate, and foundation giving in the six-county metropolitan region.

Exploring Faith and Philanthropy

Lake Institute on Faith & Giving provides and supports research, teaching, tools, and strategies for understanding the ways in which faith inspires and informs philanthropy.

- The first Lake Institute Network of Emerging Scholars (LINES) convened leading young researchers, advancing the institute’s role as catalyst, thought leader, convener, and funder filling the void in knowledge about faith and giving.

- An Executive Certificate in Religious Fundraising for religious leaders and faith-based organization fundraisers launched with leading seminaries, including Christian Theological Seminary, Duke Divinity School, Fuller Theological Seminary, and McCormick Theological Seminary.

- Research on humanitarian international nonprofits earned Yale doctoral candidate Shai Dromi the Lake Doctoral Dissertation Fellowship.

- Christian Smith, director of the University of Notre Dame’s Center for the Study of Religion and Society delivered the Thomas H. Lake Lecture.

- As Lake Distinguished Visitor, Giving Back author Valaida Fullwood spoke about collective giving and African-American giving.
Preparation Fundraisers for Success

The Fund Raising School, which has trained more than 43,000 people in 40 countries over the past 40-plus years, teaches professionals and volunteers to be more effective fundraisers.

- Nonprofits around the world received training via The Fund Raising School’s contract programs. Training sponsors include the NCAA Accelerating Academic Success Program, the Islamic Society of North America, the National Campaign to Prevent Teen Pregnancy, the University of Puerto Rico, and Habitat for Humanity Indiana.

- The Fund Raising School’s Director Tim Seiler was named the first Rosso Fellow in Philanthropic Fundraising. He received the school’s Henry A. Rosso Medal for Lifetime Achievement in Ethical Fundraising, and was the Association of Fundraising Professionals Indiana Chapter’s 2014 Outstanding Fundraising Professional. A scholarship honoring him will help more people access The Fund Raising School’s training.

- Bill Stanczykiewicz, former president and CEO of the Indiana Youth Institute, was appointed director of The Fund Raising School and senior lecturer in Philanthropic Studies.

- The Fund Raising School achieved its highest-ever growth in revenue, up 48 percent from the prior year.

Understanding Women’s Philanthropy

Research, education, and training by the Women’s Philanthropy Institute examines the impact of gender differences in philanthropy and the powerful role women play in changing the world.

- A $375,000 research grant from the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation to the Women’s Philanthropy Institute will provide donors, nonprofits, and scholars with increased understanding of women’s philanthropy.

- The Women Give 2014 study found that younger, religiously unaffiliated women are generous donors, providing insights for nonprofits.

- Women’s Philanthropy Institute Director Debra Mesch was named the Eileen Lamb O’Gara Chair in Women’s Philanthropy.

- Ph.D. student Elizabeth J. Dale’s research on same-sex couples’ philanthropic practices received the 2015 Women’s Philanthropy Institute Doctoral Dissertation Fellowship.

- The Women’s Philanthropy Institute delivered a web seminar for the Women’s Collective Giving Network, 38 organizations in 19 states comprising 7,500 women involved in giving circles.
Innovating Together Internationally

Collaborative learning, research, education, and training with our international colleagues expand knowledge and deepen global engagement in philanthropy for the greater good.

- International philanthropists, scholars, and business people attended a China Philanthropy Summit, part of a collaboration of the school and the IU Research Center for Chinese Politics and Business funded by the Ford Foundation and the Henry Luce Foundation.

- Dean Amir Pasic’s Asia trip included meeting with colleagues at the Asia Centre for Social Entrepreneurship and Philanthropy at the National University of Singapore and presenting at IU’s Asia-Pacific Alumni event in Bali, Indonesia. In China, he met with our board member Guangmei Yan and visited our partners from Sun Yat-sen University, Tsinghua School of Public Policy and Management, and Beijing Normal University’s China Philanthropy Research Institute.

- Students in the school’s first study abroad course spent two weeks in Berlin with Associate Professor Greg Witkowski learning about philanthropy and public policy from local experts, lectures, and site visits.

- Distinguished alumnus Erdal Yildirim, who leads Koç Foundation and who received the IU Benton Medallion in 2014, visited the school with Koç University President Umran İnan to explore partnership opportunities.

Providing Perspectives

The school increases public understanding of the important role philanthropy plays in society.

- Chair of the National Endowment for the Arts and alumna Jane Chu spoke at a community engagement and the arts symposium hosted by the school and other IU units.

- Emmett D. Carson, Ph.D., CEO and president of Silicon Valley Community Foundation and Visiting Charles Stewart Mott Foundation Chair on Community Foundations, participated in public presentations at the school with Brian Payne, president and CEO of the Central Indiana Community Foundation, and with Diana Aviv, president and CEO of Independent Sector.

- Founding Dean Gene Tempel was chosen as one of The NonProfit Times’ 50 most influential nonprofit sector leaders.

The school continued to see increased interaction on its social media properties, most notably LinkedIn, where page followers increased by 180 percent. On Facebook the school’s fan base rose 67 percent, while followers on Twitter grew 19 percent.

- Awareness of philanthropy and the school’s programs was raised through sponsorships of the IUPUI Regatta, the IUPUI Jaguars men’s basketball games, and the Indianapolis Indians baseball team’s education day, at which Dean Pasic threw out the first pitch.
Financial Summary

The Lilly Family School of Philanthropy has completed its second fiscal year as a new school within Indiana University on the Indiana University–Purdue University Indianapolis campus, developed from the resources of the Center on Philanthropy. The school is dedicated to improving philanthropy to improve the world by training and empowering students and professionals to be innovators and leaders who create positive and lasting change. It offers a comprehensive approach to philanthropy through its academic, research, and international programs and through The Fund Raising School, Lake Institute on Faith & Giving, and the Women’s Philanthropy Institute.

The school works in close collaboration with the Indiana University School of Public and Environmental Affairs and the School of Liberal Arts and relies on valued support from thoughtful donors and partners. We work together to meet emerging opportunities and challenges with innovative programs and to share information with nonprofit professionals and scholars. These partnerships allow us to help change lives and communities and shape the future of philanthropy in Indiana, across the nation, and around the world.

The Lilly Family School of Philanthropy continues to champion and apply the principles of financial accountability to the public, transparency and honesty, and responsible stewardship of resources. And with that, we offer this financial information to further your understanding of our commitment to excellence in all areas of our operations.

This year’s report continues to include university-appropriated funds and assessment (the fee assessed by the University for use of its administrative systems, physical plant, parking services, etc.). We believe including these details provides additional clarity to the school's financial activity. The Financial Statement for the 2014 – 2015 fiscal year reflects sources of revenue totaling $14.8 million and program expenses totaling $11.0 million resulting in a net positive balance of $3.8 million. This balance is comprised of $1.69 million in prepaid grant funding committed to multi-year grants, $285 thousand in contributions received to be committed per donor intent, $494 thousand in matching income received from endowment and campus sources to support endowed chairs, $956 thousand in The Fund Raising School program income, and $390 thousand of encumbered funds carried forward into the 2015 – 2016 fiscal year to cover expenses committed in the 2014 – 2015 fiscal year.

In the 2014 – 2015 fiscal year the school continued to implement a conservative financial plan while building the academic programs of the new school. As have many of its partner organizations in the sector, the school plans to continue with prudent expenditure budgeting for the 2015 – 2016 fiscal year in order to ensure its financial health and to operate as efficiently as possible.

Thank you for your continued support of the Lilly Family School of Philanthropy and its mission. Please contact us with any questions you might have about the 2014 – 2015 fiscal year financial information.
