Giving circles are a growing trend in collective giving that is fostering diversity and changing the face of community philanthropy.

The number of giving circles has tripled since 2007 to 1,087 today.

An estimated 150,000+ donors have given up to $1.29 billion through giving circles.

84% of giving circles make grants in their local geographic area.

60% of giving circles are formed around an identity (like gender, race, age, or religion).

Networks of giving circles have emerged since 2007, with 25 networks now in existence.

Women make up the majority of members in 70% of giving circles.

For the full report visit: https://philanthropy.iupui.edu/gendergiving

This infographic is supported by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation via the Women’s Philanthropy Institute at the Indiana University Lilly Family School of Philanthropy and by the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation. Findings and conclusions are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect official positions or policies of the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation or the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation.